* * * Mayor's Musings * * *

Happy New Year. This is the year of city elections for mayor and two city council members. The deadline to sign up for any of these positions is noon, June 3, 2019. If you are interested in one of these positions, this is your golden opportunity.

I am well satisfied with the way things are going with the city. We have an excellent slate of employees doing the tasks of the city. We have divided the jobs among several people so I will go down the list and tell you who they are and what they are doing.

Shari McAfee is the city clerk and is doing an excellent job. The job becomes increasingly more difficult with each passing year. Millie Hannan is the city treasurer and has to check and approve all invoices before she signs the checks. Carol fast takes care of cleaning the city hall and the water plant building plus the restrooms in both these buildings and the city park restrooms in the summer for the wading pool. Sheri Elliott keeps Main Street looking great the year around.

Steve Larsh takes care of the water treatment plant, which takes the nitrates out of the water. And after a steep learning curve he has mastered the operation of the plant. It is a very complex contraption. Dan Woods has taken over the operation of the sewer system and has cleaned the sewer lines for the entire city. He does many more things, such as keeping the burn pile in shape. Gene Pickard helps Dan with maintenance of equipment and has helped Dan with the rodding of the sewers. Gene also reads the water meters once a month and takes water samples daily. In the summer he does most of the mowing.

Pake McCarley runs the grader and keeps up the streets that are unpaved. Joel Halverstadt is the compliance officer/dog catcher. His telephone number is: 620 388-5634.

I think we have a great team and I will back every one of them.

At the end of this year I will be drifting off into the sunset so when I'm gone the council will do what they see fit without interference from me. My advice is that this way of operating is working so I would recommend they keep on with the current plan.

In addition to me bowing out, Tom Taylor has moved to Greensburg so we have 60 days to replace him on the council. Michelle Murray is also moving at the end February so we will need someone to take over her slot. The council has approved and sworn into office Linda Simmons to fill the remainder of Tom's term, which ends the second Monday in January 2020. Council has approved Aaron Stokes to fill the remainder of Michelle's term, which ends the second Monday in January 2022. Aaron will be sworn in at the March 11, 2019 meeting.

I will end this as usual with "yield to the person on your right" and "SLOW DOWN".

Robert Ellis

Trash Cost Increase

The cost for residential trash increased from $13.00 per month to $13.50 per month beginning with the January 31, 2019 billing. The business contracts had a small increase as well. These costs will remain the same for 2019 and 2020.

Keep Streets Clean

When mowing grass, raking leaves, trimming bushes, please don't allow grass clippings, leaves, etc. to end up in the street. These items will find their way into the storm sewer and often cause clogs. Thank you for your help with this.

Siren Testing

Kiowa County will be testing the storm sirens every Saturday at 1:00 p.m. for 30 seconds, except as follows:

- A Severe thunderstorm or tornado watch or warning is in effect at the time of the test, or has been in effect within six hours preceding the time of the test.
- Severe weather is forecast for any period up to 6:00 p.m. the day of the test.

Automatic Water Payment

The City has an agreement with Haviland State Bank so that you can authorize payment of your water/sewer/trash utility bill through a checking or savings account. This is a free service to our customers. You can bank anywhere in the country and take advantage of this service. If interested, call or e-mail the office, and the form will be sent to you.

Email Addresses

Please send us your email address so that notifications about the current newsletter and other City notices and information can be sent to you electronically. This really cuts down on the cost of postage and paper. Send your request by an email to cityhall@haviglandtelco.com.

"J" Turns

"J" turns continue to be a problem on Main Street. There are NO J TURN signs on the first and second blocks of north Main Street. These were added to keep people from making "J" turns in front of businesses, and also from making "J" turns when backing out of a parking space. Both turns are dangerous to traffic and pedestrians. With addition of the signs, you can be ticketed. Please use caution, obey the signs, and stop making "J" turns.

- Diplomacy is the art of skating on thin ice without getting into deep water.
- A mosquito is like a kid. When he stops making noise, he's into something.
- How can you get four suits for a dollar? Buy a deck of cards!
- If a long dress is evening wear, what is a suit of armor? Silverware?
- He who hesitates is not only lost, but miles from the next exit.
- The closest to perfection a person ever comes is when he fills out a job application.
- The faster the plane, the narrower the seats.
- Why does quicksand work slowly?

Pillsbury Doughboy Obituary

It is with saddest heart that we must pass on the following news. Please join us in remembering a great icon of the entertainment community.

The Pillsbury Doughboy died yesterday of a yeast infection and complications from repeated pokes in the belly. He was 71. Doughboy was buried in a lightly greased pan.

Dozens of celebrities turned out to pay their respects, including Mrs. Butterworth, Hungry Jack, the California Raisins, Betty Crocker, the Hostess Twinkies, and Captain Crunch.

The gravesite was piled high with flours. Aunt Jemima delivered the eulogy and lovingly described Doughboy as a man who never knew how much he was kneaded.

Doughboy rose quickly in show business, but his later life was filled with turnovers. He was not considered a very 'smart' cookie, wasting much of his dough on half-baked schemes.

Despite being a little flaky at times, he still as a crusty old man was considered a roll model for millions.

Doughboy is survived by his wife, Play Dough; two children, John Dough and Jane Dough; plus they had one in the oven. He is also survived by his elderly father, Pop Tart.

The funeral was held at 3:50 for about 20 minutes.

Montana Grizzly Bear Notice...

In light of the rising frequency of human/grizzly bear conflicts, the Montana Department of Fish and Game is advising hikers, hunters, and fishermen to take extra precautions and keep alert for bears while in the field.

"We advise that outdoorsmen wear noisy little bells on their clothing so as not to startle bears that aren't expecting them. We also advise outdoorsmen to carry pepper spray with them in case of an encounter with a bear. It is also a good idea to watch out for fresh signs of bear activity. Outdoorsmen should recognize the difference between black bear and grizzly bear poop. Black bear poop is small and contains lots of berries and squirrel fur. Grizzly bear poop has little bells in it and smells like pepper."

Trivia – Useful and Otherwise

Epic Family Feuds

Adolf and Rudolf Dassler – After the Dassler brothers started a shoe company out of their mother’s home in the 1920s in Herzogenaurach, Germany their business got a big boost when U.S. track-and-field gold medallist Jesse Owens sported the Dassler’s footwear at the 1936 Olympics in Berlin. However, for reasons that remain a mystery, the siblings’ relationship soured. In the late 1940s, the tensions between the Dasslers led them to launch competing athletic shoe manufacturers: Adolf dubbed his Adidas (from his nickname, “Adi,” and the first three letters of his last name) while Rudolf’s became known as Puma (he initially called it “Ruda,” based on letters from his first and last name). The brothers constructed factories on opposite sides of the river in Herzogenaurach, and the rivalry grew so intense that some local shops catered solely to Adidas or Puma employees and it was frowned upon for a worker from one company to wed someone from the other firm.

Things You May Not Know About the Trail of Tears

Renegade Cherokees signed a treaty selling all tribal lands. John Ross, who was of Scottish and Cherokee ancestry and became the tribe’s principal chief in 1828, was strongly opposed to giving up the Cherokees’ ancestral lands, as were the majority of the Cherokee people. However, a small group within the tribe believed it was inevitable that white settlers would keep encroaching on their lands and therefore the only way to preserve Cherokee culture and survive as a tribe was to move west. In 1835, while Ross was away, this minority faction signed a treaty at New Echota, the Cherokee Nation capital (located in Georgia), agreeing to sell the U.S. government all tribal lands in the east in exchange for $5 million and new land in the west. As part of the agreement, the government was supposed to help cover the Cherokees’ moving costs and pay to support them during their first year in Indian Territory. When Ross found out about the treaty, he argued it had been made illegally. Nevertheless, in 1836 it was ratified by a single vote in the U.S. Senate and signed by President Jackson. The treaty gave the Cherokees two years to vacate their lands. In June 1839, after the Cherokees had been forced to relocate to Indian Territory, several leaders of the so-called Treaty Party, who had advocated for the New Echota agreement, were assassinated by tribe members who had opposed removal to the west.

Famous Child Prodigies

Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz – Born in Mexico in 1651, Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz learned to read as a toddler and quickly blazed through all the books in her grandfather’s library. Despite being denied a formal education because of her gender, she began writing religious poetry at age eight and later taught herself Latin, supposedly mastering it in just 20 lessons. By her adolescence, she had also studied Greek logic and learned an Aztec language called Nahuatl. Juana’s reputation for genius later won her a place as a lady-in-waiting at the viceroy’s court in Mexico City. When she was 17, she was famously tested by a panel of 40 university professors, all of whom were shocked by her deep knowledge of philosophy, mathematics and history. The former child prodigy entered a convent at age 20 and spent the rest of her life as a cloistered nun. She continued her studies, however, and eventually established herself as one of the 17th century’s most popular authors of drama, poetry and prose. Her image now appears on the 200-peso bill in Mexico.

Mysterious Underground Cities

Wieliczka Salt Mine – Also known as the “Underground Salt Cathedral,” Poland’s Wieliczka Salt mine is a massive subterranean complex of rooms, passageways and statues located on the outskirts of Krakow. The site dates to the 1200s, when miners first descended beneath the earth’s surface to find rock salt. In the centuries that followed, they slowly carved the mine into a warren of galleries and tunnels that extended more than 1,000 feet underground. When they weren’t digging for “white gold,” the workers also used the mine’s salt crystal deposits to build a stunning collection of chapels, chandeliers, statues and bas reliefs, including a detailed replica of Da Vinci’s “The Last Supper.” The Wieliczka mine stopped producing salt in 2007 after some 700 years in operation, but it remains a popular tourist attraction in Poland. It’s also home to a health spa that touts the therapeutic properties of the mine’s salt-rich microclimate.

Civilizations that Mysteriously Collapsed

Maya – Arguably the New World’s most advanced pre-Columbian civilization, the Maya carved large stone cities into the jungles of southern Mexico and Central America, complete with elaborate plazas, palaces, pyramid-temples and ball courts. Known for their hieroglyphic writing, as well as their calendar-making, mathematics, astronomy and architecture skills, the Maya reached the peak of their influence during the so-called Classic Period, from around A.D. 250 to A.D. 900, but at the end of the Classic Period, in one of history’s great enigmas, the populace suddenly deposed its kings, abandoned the cities and ceased with technological innovation. Dozens of theories have been put forth to explain what happened. Some historians, for instance, point to a major drought, exacerbated by deforestation and soil erosion, as the impetus for the societal collapse, while others put the blame on a disease epidemic, a peasant revolt against an increasingly corrupt ruling class, constant warfare among the various city-states, a breakdown of trade routes or some combination thereof. Though dispersed, the Maya never disappeared. Millions of their Mayan-speaking descendants continue to inhabit the region to this day.

This issue is not only late, but it is mostly cutesy (or what I consider humorous) stuff and the normal notices that are in each newsletter. Working on the end of the year reports, and balancing out January for the auditor's visit in February took longer than I anticipated. The next issue will again have some feature articles, photos and "Clips From the Past".
